Cadmus' India-Based Content Operations (KnowledgeWorks Global Limited) Achieves ISO 9001:2000 Certification

Richmond, Virginia (February 13, 2006) - Cadmus Communications Corporation (NASDAQ/NM: CDMS) today announced that its KnowledgeWorks Global Limited (KGL) division, an India-based content processing operation that is 80% owned by Cadmus, has received ISO 9001:2000 certification, a globally recognized standard for quality assurance. KGL provides copy-editing, composition and data conversion services to scholarly, professional and educational publishers from facilities in Mumbai and Chennai, India.

"This is a tremendous achievement for our operations in India," said Steve Hare, President of Cadmus' Publisher Services Group. "The content that we handle for our customers in the scientific and educational publishing markets is essential information that must meet a very high standard of accuracy. This certification is a clear message to our customers that we are committed to delivering high quality service and that we will consistently deliver the results that they expect from us."

"KGL is committed to satisfying its customers by meeting or exceeding agreed upon requirements and expectations," said Atul Goel, President and COO of KGL. "Our competent and disciplined associates achieve this by continually improving the effectiveness of our processes, technologies, and quality management systems. KGL employs over 500 associates in our two operations along with approximately 300 home-based Knowledge Associates – this certification will allow our associates to deliver consistent results for our customers around the world."

ISO 9001 certification measures the effectiveness of the business and quality management systems implemented by the organization to deliver its services. The organization must have clearly defined responsibilities, documented procedures, and consistent operation by associates. The ISO 9001 audit was completed on December 26, 2005 by BSI Management Systems.

"Congratulations are due to KGL for maintaining such a real time effective quality management system. The commitment from top management and the involvement from the entire team synchronized fantastically. We are pleased to note the well-developed infrastructure and internal tracking systems which are valuable additions to the organization," commented Durai Anand Kumar, Deputy Manager for BSI Management's office in Chennai, India.
